Preface

This report is part of Volume 4 of the 1972 Census of Governments showing principal findings of the census concerning the organization and finances of the Commonwealth and local governments in Puerto Rico.

The periodic census of governments is taken at 5-year intervals as required by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 161. This 1972 quinquennial census, similar to those taken since 1957, covers four major subject fields—governmental organization, taxable property values, public employment, and government finances.

Plans and specifications for this census were developed by the Governments Division in consultation with other offices and divisions of the Bureau, other Federal Government agencies, and the Census Advisory Committee on State and Local Government Statistics. David P. McNelis and Curtis T. Hill, former Chiefs of the Governments Division, played an important part in development and implementation of plans for the 1972 Census of Governments.

Finance data were prepared in the Governments Division by the Finance Branch, headed by Vance Kane, under the supervision of John Coleman, Assistant Chief for Economic Statistics. David F. Patching was responsible for finance data compilation and review.

Governmental organization data were prepared under the direction of Gertrude A. Whitehouse, Chief of the Governmental Organization Branch. Legislative research was supervised by Muriel D. Miller. Dorothy A. Gottscholl, assisted by

Margaret Seymour, was responsible for updating the lists of governmental units

Maurice Criz, Senior Adviser, was responsible for planning and review of this publication.

The Publications Services Division, Social and Economic Statistics Administration, provided advice and service in the preparation of copy for publication. Publication copy was prepared in the Governments Division under the supervision of Helen D. Files.

Grateful acknowledgment is made of the cooperation given by Commonwealth government officials who provided information necessary for this report of the 1972 Census of Governments.

Introduction

This is a special report resulting from the 1972 Census of Governments on the organization, employment, and finances of State and local governments. The nature and origin of these data are indicated in the following paragraphs.

GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION

In the Census Bureau's classification and counting of governmental units, five major kinds of local governments are distinguished--counties, municipalities, townships, school districts, and special districts. Only municipios are counted as independent local governments in Puerto Rico. Classified here as municipal governments (see table 1), these units of governments resemble counties or New England towns in that they provide services to both urban and rural areas.

Most major functions provided in the continental United States by municipalities, school districts, and other local governments are performed directly by the Commonwealth Government and its dependent authorities and other agencies. The principal responsibilities of the municipios in Puerto Rico are the improvement and maintenance of streets and plazas; sanitation services, mainly involving street cleaning and garbage collection; cemeteries; markets; slaughterhouses; and local jails. Many municipios provide some health and hospital services, often in conjunction with Commonwealth facilities and services in their respective areas.

Information in this report for the Commonwealth Government includes not only the commonly recognized activities of the central government, but also data for its various special funds and dependent agencies, such as the University of Puerto Rico, the Puerto Rico Urban Renewal and Housing Corporation, the Aqueduct and Sewer Authority, the Industrial Development Company, soil conservation districts and the like, as outlined in table 1. The Commonwealth Government directly provides and administers all local public schools, most local police, hospital and health services, and also certain functions which in Census reporting on governments elsewhere appear only in local government data. Accordingly, in this report, the general government categories of "fire protection," "sewerage," and "parks and recreation," as well as "utilities" categories are shown for Commonwealth Government figures. In Puerto Rico, utility services are supplied by dependent Commonwealth agencies, as follows: Water supply (as well as sewerage)--the Aqueduct and Sewer Authority; electric power--the Water Resources Authority; and local transit--the Metropolitan Bus Authority.

Introducción

Este es un informe especial, resultado del Censo de Gobiernos de 1972, sobre la organización, empleo, y finanzas de los gobiernos locales y estatales. La naturaleza y origen de estos datos se indican en los párrafos siguientes.

ORGANIZACIÓN GUBERNAMENTAL

En la clasificación y recuento de las unidades gubernamentales por el Negociado del Censo, se distinguen cinco categorías principales de gobiernos locales--condados, municipios, pueblos, distritos escolares y distritos especiales. Sólo los municipios se consideran como gobiernos locales independientes en Puerto Rico. Clasificados aquí como gobiernos municipales (véase la tabla 1), estas unidades gubernamentales se asemejan a condados o pueblos de Nueva Inglaterra en que proveen servicios a ambas, áreas urbanas y rurales.

La mayoría de las funciones que las municipalidades, distritos escolares y otros gobiernos locales proveen en los Estados Unidos continentales, las ejerce directamente el gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado y corporaciones públicas y otras agencias. Las principales responsabilidades de los municipios en Puerto Rico son el mantenimiento de las calles y plazas de recreo; servicios de sanidad, que incluye principalmente la limpieza de calles y el recogido de la basura; cementerios, mercados; mataderos; y las cárceles locales. Muchos de los municipios proveen algunos servicios de salud y de hospitales, a veces conjuntamente con las facilidades y los servicios del Estado Libre Asociado en sus áreas respectivas.

La información en este informe para el Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado incluye no sólo las actividades comúnmente reconocidas del gobierno central, sino también datos de sus varios fondos especiales y agencias dependientes tales como la Universidad de Puerto Rico, la Corporación de Renovación Urbana y de Viviendas de Puerto Rico, la Autoridad de Acueductos y Alcantarillados, la Compañía de Fomento Industrial, los distritos de la conservación de suelos y otras parecidas, tal como se bosqueja en la tabla 1. El Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado, provee y administra directamente todas las escuelas públicas, la mayoría de la policía local, servicio de hospitales y salubridad, y también ciertas funciones las cuales, en informes censales de los gobiernos de otras áreas, aparecen únicamente en los datos sobre gobiernos locales. Por lo tanto, en este informe, las categorías gubernamentales generales de "protección contra incendio", "alcantarillado", y "parques y recreo", así como "servicios públicos", se presentan en las cifras para el Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado. En Puerto Rico, los servicios públicos son provistos por agencias gubernamentales que dependen del Estado Libre Asociado, como sigue: Suministro de agua (así como el alcantarillado)--Autoridad de Acueductos y Alcantarillados; energía eléctrica -- Autoridad de las Fuentes Fluviales; y el transporte local de pasajeros -- Autoridad Metropolitana de Autobuses.

Tables 1, 2, and 3 present information on the number of governmental units, by type, found to be in existence in Puerto Rico at the beginning of calendar 1972. Table 1 provides a brief analysis of local governments in Puerto Rico, and a listing of various statutory public agencies that have been classified as subordinate agencies of the Commonwealth Government, rather than as independent governmental units.

The information in table 1 is reproduced from Governmental Organization (Volume I of the 1972 Census of Governments). This portion of the publication is based on a detailed analysis of the legal provisions governing the existence or establishment of local government entities in each State. A description of this kind was first prepared and published for 1952, after being reviewed by one or more advisers in each State. Subsequent State legislation pertaining to local governments was analyzed for the Census of Governments conducted in 1957, 1962, 1967, and again for this 1972 Census. The individual State descriptions, as brought up to date as of 1972, were subjected to review by one or more political scientists or State officials in each State. The Census Bureau's classification of the various governmental entities in Puerto Rico, as shown in table 1, was reviewed by Frank K. Haszard of the Commonwealth Department of the Treasury. His comments and suggestions were very helpful. However, responsibility rests with the Bureau of the Census for particular classification decisions and for the definitions and criteria.

GOVERNMENTAL FINANCES

Financial statistics of the Commonwealth and municipio governments are presented in tables 5 and 6. Additional detail for the Commonwealth Government is presented in tables 7 and 8. Table 4 provides data on finances of employee-retirement systems of Puerto Rico governments. Financial data for individual municipio governments are presented in table 9. These financial statistics are on a uniform June 30 fiscal year basis, as fiscal years of all governments in Puerto Rico end on June 30. The following brief discussion of certain basic concepts applied in these statistics is supplemented by the section on "Definitions of Selected Terms" which appears at the end of this report.

These categories respectively comprise all amounts of money received and paid out by a government and its agencies (net of correcting transactions such as recoveries or refunds), with the exception of amounts for debt issuance and retirement and for loan and investment, agency, and private trust transactions. The following examples illustrate some applications of this summary definition.

Tax revenue is reported in terms of gross collections minus tax refunds during the same period. Receipts from issuance of debt, recoupment of previous loans, and sale of investment assets are not counted as revenue; similarly, payments for debt retirement, extension of loans, and purchase of securities are excluded from expenditure.

Las Tablas 1, 2 y 3 presentan información sobre el número de unidades gubernamentales, por tipo, que existían en Puerto Rico al comienzo de 1972. La tabla 1 provee un análisis conciso de los gobiernos locales en Puerto Rico, y una lista de varias agencias públicas estatutarias que han sido clasificadas como agencias subordinadas del Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado, en vez de unidades gubernamentales independientes.

La información en la tabla 1 ha sido reproducida de la Organización Gubernamental, (Volumen I del Censo de Gobiernos de 1972). Esta parte de la publicación se basa en un análisis detallado de las estipulaciones legales que gobiernan la existencia o el establecimiento de entidades locales gubernamentales en cada Estado. Una descripción de esta clase se preparó y se publicó por primera vez en el 1952 después de haber sido revisada por uno o más consejeros en cada Estado. Legislación Estatal posterior relacionada con gobiernos locales fué analizada para los Censos de Gobiernos que se llevaron a cabo en el 1957, 1962, 1967, y también para el Censo de 1972. Las descripciones individuales para cada Estado, actualizadas hasta el 1972, fueron revisadas por uno o más científicos políticos u oficiales estatales de cada Estado. La clasificación que hace el Negociado del Censo de las varias entidades gubernamentales en Puerto Rico, tal como se presentan en la tabla 1, fue revisada por Frank K. Haszard del Departamento de Hacienda del Estado Libre Asociado de Puerto Rico. Sus comentarios y sugerencias fueron de mucha ayuda. No obstante, la responsabilidad descansa sobre el Negociado del Censo.

FINANZAS GUBERNAMENTALES

Estadísticas financieras del Estado Libre Asociado y de los gobiernos municipales se presentan en las tablas 5 y 6. Detalles adicionales para el Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado se presentan en las tablas 7 y 8. La tabla 4 contiene datos sobre las finanzas de los sistemas de retiro de los empleados de los gobiernos de Puerto Rico. En la tabla 9 se presentan datos financieros individuales para los gobiernos municipales. Estas estadísticas financieras se basan en el año fiscal uniforme del 30 de junio, ya que los años fiscales de todos los gobiernos en Puerto Rico terminan el 30 de junio. La siguiente explicación abreviada de ciertos conceptos básicos aplicados a estas estadísticas, se suplementa con la sección sobre "Definiciones de Términos Seleccionados" que aparece al final de este informe.

Estas categorías incluyen respectivamente todas las cantidades de dinero recibidas y pagadas por un gobierno y sus agencias (cantidades netas después de contabilizarse las transacciones correctivas tales como cobros o reembolsos), con la excepción de aquellas cantidades para la emisión y pago de deudas y para transacciones de préstamos e inversiones, agencia y fideicomiso. Los siguientes ejemplos ilustran algunas aplicaciones de esta definición abreviada.

Las recaudaciones por concepto de contribuciones se informan en términos de cobros totales menos reembolsos de contribuciones durante el mismo período. Los recibos por concepto de emisión de deudas, recobro de préstamos anteriores, y de la venta de activos, de inversión de capital no se cuentan como ingreso; igualmente, los pagos para el retiro de deudas, concesión de préstamos, y compra de valores, se excluyen de los gastos.

Payments among the various funds and agencies of a particular government are excluded from revenue and expenditure as representing internal transfers. Thus, a government's contribution to a retirement fund it administers is not counted as expenditure, nor is the receipt of this contribution by the retirement fund considered revenue.

It will be evident from the foregoing that while governmental expenditure includes all capital outlay, of which a major portion (especially for public authorities) is commonly financed by borrowing, governmental revenue does not include receipts from borrowing. Thus, the relationship between totals of revenue and expenditure, as shown in this report, should not be considered a direct measure of the degree of budgetary "balance," as that term is sometimes applied.

Revenue is classified according to the sources from which it is derived--for example, intergovernmental revenue, taxes, and current charges.

Expenditure is classified by character and object in tables 6 and 7. The phrase "character and object" refers to the general nature of governmental spending--whether it represents a payment to another government (intergovernmental expenditure) or whether it is for current operation, capital outlay, assistance and subsidies, interest on debt, or insurance benefits and repayments. These tables also show the amount expended for personal services--i.e., salaries and wages of government employees. Most personal service expenditure is in "current operation," but some may be for employees engaged in construction work.

Functional classification of expenditure reflects the types of services and facilities provided by governments--education, highways, hospitals, etc. This type of breakdown is most fully developed here for the amounts presented in tables 6 and 7. These tables also show the amount of capital outlay expenditure for selected functions.

Implicit in tables 6 and 7 and in various other tables is another classification--by financial sector, namely, "general government," "utilities," and "insurance trust."

The "general government" sector refers to all government revenue and expenditure except for specifically defined utility or insurance trust amounts.

For Census reporting of governmental statistics elsewhere, the term "utilities" relates only to water supply, electric power, gas supply, and transit systems operated by local governments. The "utilities" categories as applied in this report relate primarily to water supply, electric power, and transit systems operated by the Commonwealth Governments, as explained above. Electric utilities were reported for 3 municipios (Cayey, Culebra, and San Juan), as shown in table 9.

Los pagos entre los varios fondos y agencias de un gobierno en particular se excluyen de los ingresos y gastos, considerándose como transferencias internas. Por lo tanto, la contribución de un gobierno a un fondo de retiro que él administra, no se cuenta como gasto, ni el recibo de esta contribución por el fondo de retiro se considera como un ingreso.

Por la exposición anterior se hará evidente que mientras los gastos gubernamentales incluyen todos los desembolsos de capital, la mayor parte de los cuales (especialmente para autoridades públicas) es financiada generalmente por medio de préstamos, los ingresos gubernamentales no incluyen las cantidades recibidas de préstamos. Por lo tanto, la relación entre los totales de ingresos y gastos, según se muestra en este informe, no debe considerarse como una medida directa del grado de "balance" presupuestario, como el término suele usarse algunas veces.

Los ingresos se clasifican de acuerdo con la fuente de la cual se derivan--por ejemplo, ingresos intergubernamentales, contribuciones, y cargos corrientes.

En las tablas 6 y 7 se clasifican los gastos por índole y objeto. La frase "índole y objeto" se refiere a la naturaleza general de los desembolsos gubernamentales -- ya sea que representen un pago a otro gobierno (gastos intergubernamentales) o si son para las operaciones corrientes, gastos de capital, asistencia y subsidios, interés sobre deudas, o beneficios y pagos de seguros. Estas tablas también muestran las cantidades que se pagan servicios personales -- i.e., salarios y jornales a empleados gubernamentales. La mayor parte de los gastos de servicios personales se incluyen bajo "operaciones corrientes", pero puede que parte se emplee para pagar empleados ocupados en trabajos de construcción.

La clasificación funcional de gastos refleja los tipos de servicios y facilidades que proveen los gobiernos -- instrucción, carreteras, hospitales, etc. Este tipo de desglose es más extenso, con referencia a las cifras que se presentan en las tablas 6 y 7. Estas tablas también presentan las cantidades para gastos de capital por funciones seleccionadas.

Implícita en las tablas 6 y 7 y en otras varias tablas, hay otra clasificación -- por sector financiero, o sea, "gobierno general", "servicio público", y "seguros fiduciarios".

El sector del "gobierno general" se refiere a todos los ingresos y gastos gubernamentales, excepto en ciertos servicios públicos, específicamente definidos, o cantidades para seguros fiduciarios.

En todas las demás áreas al informar estadísticas gubernamentales al Censo, el término "servicios públicos" se refiere únicamente al suministro de agua, energía eléctrica, suministro de gas, y sistemas de transporte de pasajeros operados por gobiernos locales. Las categorías de "servicios públicos" según se aplican en este informe, se refiere principalmente al suministro del agua, energía eléctrica, y los sistemas de transporte de pasajeros operados por los Gobiernos en el Estado Libre Asociado, tal como se explica anteriormente. Tres municipios informaron servicios eléctricos (Cayey, Culebra y San Juan), según se indica en la tabla 9.

Utility revenue consists of the amounts received from external sales of goods and services by undertakings so classified. Utility expenditure comprises all spending involved in the provision and conduct of such undertakings--i.e., acquisition of facilities, current operation (including the purchase of goods and services for resale), and any interest paid on utility debt.

"Insurance trust" activities of State and local governments consist of contributory retirement systems for public employees and governmental social insurance and life insurance programs. Insurance trust revenue comprises only (1) retirement and insurance contributions (including social insurance "taxes") received from insured individuals and their employers; and (2) earnings on investment assets of insurance trust funds. Insurance trust expenditure comprises only insurance benefits and repayments of contributions from insurance funds. Costs of administering insurance trust activities are classified as general expenditure.

Transactions between governments (subject to limited exceptions, as noted below) are classified distinctively as "intergovernmental revenue" and "intergovernmental expenditure" and the sums involved are netted out of aggregates comprising the groups of governments concerned. Most of the amounts so classified represent fiscal aid in the form of grants-in-aid and shared tax proceeds. Also included, however, are amounts paid or received for services performed for one government by another on a reimbursement or cost-sharing basis, and payments in lieu of taxes.

Total revenue and total expenditure for an individual government, as shown in this report, include any intergovernmental amounts. However, as noted above, intergovernmental transactions among groups of governments have been netted out to arrive at nonduplicative totals of revenue and expenditure.

No attempt has been made to distinguish or net out the following types of cash payments among governments: (1) government employer contributions to retirement or other social insurance systems, administered by another government; (2) interest on outstanding debt to other governments holding the securities involved; or (3) intergovernmental transactions that involve no distinction between governmental and private suppliers or customers--e.g., in purchasing property, utility services, commodities, and the like.

El ingreso por servicios públicos consiste de las cantidades recibidas de la venta de productos y servicios a clientes externos por las empresas así clasificadas. Los gastos por servicios públicos comprenden todos los desembolsos destinados al abastecimiento y administración de tales empresas -- i.e., adquisición de facilidades, la operación actual (incluyendo la compra de productos y servicios para la reventa) y cualquier interés pagado por deudas de las empresas de servicios.

Las actividades de los "seguros fiduciarios" del gobierno del Estado y de los gobiernos locales consiste de sistemas de retiro para empleados públicos, y programas de seguro social gubernamental y de seguros de vida. Los ingresos de los seguros fiduciarios comprenden solamente (1) aportaciones para retiro y seguros (incluyendo "aportaciones" para seguro social) recibidas de individuos y sus patronos asegurados; y (2) ganancias sobre activos de inversión de los fondos de seguros fiduciarios. Los gastos de seguros fiduciarios sólo abarcan los pagos de seguros, y la devolución de aportaciones de fondos de seguros. Los gastos relacionados con la administración de las actividades de los fondos de seguros fiduciarios se clasifican como gastos generales.

Las transacciones entre gobiernos (sujeto a excepciones limitadas, según se explica más adelante) se clasifican distintamente como "ingresos intergubernamentales" y "gastos intergubernamentales" y las sumas de dinero envueltas son cantidades netas obtenidas de cifras agregadas correspondientes a los grupos de gobiernos incluidos. La mayoría de las cantidades así clasificadas representan una ayuda fiscal en forma de aportaciones de ayuda y distribución de recaudaciones por concepto de contribuciones cobradas. Sin embargo, también se incluyen cantidades pagadas o recibidas por servicios prestados por un gobierno a otro a base de reembolso o de costo compartido, y por pagos en vez de contribuciones.

Los ingresos y gastos totales de un gobierno individual, como se muestra en esta informe, incluyen cualesquiera cantidades intergubernamental. No obstante, como se indica anteriormente, las transacciones intergubernamentales entre grupos de gobiernos se han traducido a cantidades netas, para eliminar duplicación en los totales de ingresos y gastos.

No se ha realizado esfuerzo alguno para distinguir o convertir en cifras netas los siguientes tipos de pagos en efectivo entre los gobiernos: (1) las aportaciones del gobierno como patrono al fondo de retiro o a otros sistemas de seguro social, administrados por otro gobierno; (2) interés sobre deudas pendientes a otros gobiernos que poseen los valores envueltos; o (3) transacciones intergubernamentales que no envuelven distinción alguna entre suplidores o clientes -- e.i., en la compra de propiedades, de servicios prestados por agencias de servicio público, de artículos, y otros por el estilo.

The basic statistics for each of the municipios were assembled and supplied by the Bureau of Municipal Affairs of the Puerto Rico Department of the Treasury.

Financial statistics of the Commonwealth Government, including its special funds and dependent agencies, were compiled by staff members of the Governments Division, Bureau of the Census, from published official sources and from supplemental unpublished schedules and special tabulations supplied by the Commonwealth Department of the Treasury.

Las estadísticas básicas para cada uno de los municipios fueron reunidas y aportadas por el Negociado de Asuntos Municipales del Departamento del Tesoro de Puerto Rico.

Las estadísticas financieras del Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado, incluyendo los fondos especiales y agencias dependientes, fueron reunidas por miembros del personal de la División de Gobiernos, Negociado del Censo, -- fuentes oficiales publicadas y de documentos suplementarios no publicados, y de tabulaciones especiales suministradas por el Departamento del Tesoro del Estado Libre Asociado.

Table 1. Summary of Local Government Structure: 1972

There were 76 local governments in Puerto Rico as of January 1972.

MUNICIPIOS (76)

The area of Puerto Rico and the nearby small islands under its jurisdiction are divided into municipios which are classified, for Census purposes, as independent local governments. The municipios resemble counties or New England towns in that they are composed of, and perform services for, both urban and rural areas. They are governed by an elected mayor (alcalde) and an elected municipal assembly, except for San Juan, which has a 17-member board of commissioners, 12 elected and five appointed by the Governor.

In Puerto Rico, the Commonwealth Government or its public authorities provide fire, police, water, sewer, park education, most hospital and health services for the municipios, and attending to welfare needs. The major municipal functions are paving and maintenance of streets and plazas, garbage collection, operation of cemeteries, markets, slaughterhouses, and municipal jails.

"Cities," "towns," and "villages," which in continental United States usually constitute separate units of local government are, in Puerto Rico, subdivisions of the municipios, without local self-government. Also in this class are the "barrios," usually representing areas of common neighborhood or community interests and used principally for mapping purposes.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS

The public school system of Puerto Rico is considered, for Census purposes, as a dependent activity of the Commonwealth Government. Since 1946, all educational activities have been supported exclusively by appropriations from the central government to the Department of Education, and ownership of all public school buildings and property is vested in the Commonwealth.

Puerto Rico is divided into "school districts" which are administrative areas of the Commonwealth Department of Education. Each municipio constitutes a district, except for the capital (San Juan) and Bayamón, which have five and two districts respectively, and the municipios of Las Marias, Florida, and Loíza and the Island of Culebra, which are parts of the districts of neighboring municipios. Each of these "school districts" has a superintendent of schools appointed by the Department of Education.

SPECIAL DISTRICTS

There are no governmental units operating in Puerto Rico that are classified by the Bureau of the Census as special district governments.

Habían 76 gobiernos locales en Puerto Rico en enero de 1972.

MUNICIPIOS (76)

El área de Puerto Rico y las pequeñas islas cercanas bajo su jurisdicción se divide en municipios los cuales se clasifican, para propósitos del Censo, como gobiernos locales independientes. Los municipios se parecen a condados o a los pueblos de Nueva Inglaterra en que se componen, y ejecutan servicios para ambas áreas urbanas y rurales. Son gobernados por un alcalde electo, y una asamblea municipal electa, con excepción de San Juan, el cual tiene una junta de comisionados de 17 miembros, 12 electos y 5 nombrados por el Gobernador.

En Puerto Rico, el Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado o sus autoridades públicas proveen servicios contra incendio, de policía, de suministro de agua, de alcantarillado, parques, instrucción, la mayoría de los servicios de hospitales y salud pública para los municipios, y dan atención a las necesidades de bienestar público. Las funciones municipales más importantes son la pavimentación y mantenimiento de calles y plazas, colección de basura, operación de cementerios, mercados, mataderos, y cárceles municipales.

"Ciudades", "pueblos", y "aldeas", las que en los Estados Unidos continentales generalmente constituyen unidades de gobierno local separado son, en Puerto Rico, subdivisiones de los municipios, sin gobierno local propio. También se incluyen en esta clasificación los "barrios", que usualmente representan áreas de intereses vecinales o comunales, y que se usan principalmente para propósitos de cartografía.

DISTRITOS ESCOLARES

El sistema de escuelas públicas de Puerto Rico se considera, para propósitos del Censo, como una actividad dependiente del Gobierno del Estado Libre Asociado. Desde el 1946, todas las actividades educacionales han sido sufragadas exclusivamente de aportaciones del gobierno central al Departamento de Instrucción, y todos los edificios de escuelas públicas y demás propiedades pertenecen al Estado Libre Asociado.

Puerto Rico está dividido en "distritos escolares" los cuales son áreas administrativas del Departamento de Instrucción del Estado Libre Asociado. Cada municipio constituye un distrito, excepto la capital (San Juan) y Bayamón, los cuales tienen cinco y dos distritos respectivamente, y los municipios de Las Marías, Florida, y Loíza, y la Isla de Culebra, los cuales son parte de los distritos de municipios vecinos. Cada uno de estos "distritos escolares" tiene un superintendente de escuelas nombrado por el Departamento de Instrucción.

DISTRITOS ESPECIALES

En Puerto Rico no hay en operación unidades gubernamentales que el Negociado del Censo clasifica como gobiernos de distritos especiales.

Table 1. Summary of Local Government Structure:
1972—Continued

SUBORDINATE AGENCIES AND AREAS

In Puerto Rico there are a number of public agencies which derive substantial amounts of revenue from the operation of their facilities. These agencies, however, are either organized as parts of established departments of the Commonwealth, or have boards consisting of officials of the Commonwealth in an ex officio capacity or of members appointed by the Governor. They are considered, for Census purposes, to be subordinate agencies of the central government rather than independent local governments. These agencies are listed below. Estas agencias, no obstante son, u organizadas como parte de departamentos establecidos del Estado Libre Asociado, o son administradas por juntas que consisten de oficiales del Estado Libre Asociado en capacidad de ex-oficio, o de miembros nombrados por el Gobernador. Se les considera, para propósitos censales, como agencias subordinadas del gobierno central en vez de gobiernos locales independientes. Estas agencias se listan a continuación. Note: Because of rounding, detail may not add to totals. The Commonwealth Government, directly or through special authorities, provides certain services that in the United States proper are commonly provided only by local governments. For this report, accordingly, Commonwealth revenue and expenditure amounts are shown distinctively for various "local" activities, applying certain categories which are used elsewhere only for local government amounts in Census reports on governmental finances. These categories mainly involve local utilities (electric power, water supply, and local transit systems), local police and fire protection, local parks and recreation, and sewerage. See table 7 for additional detail.
